Act of Kindness

Snow. Personally, I love the snow. Of course, the cold of Colorado's winter can be severe, but I still enjoy the snow to this day. The chill of the snow, the scene of everything turning white as the snow covers the streets, lawns, and roofs of houses, and making snowmen, are the reasons that I love the snow. Recently, however, I found one more reason to love snow.

When it snows, people clear the snow piled up in their driveways and on the sidewalks in front of their homes. I, too, enjoy the snowfall and go out to clear the snow once it stops. I start by clearing my driveway and then move on to shovel the snow piled on the sidewalks. However, instead of just clearing my own sidewalk, I continue to shovel the snow piled on the sidewalks of neighboring houses. Still being young, it's not too difficult for me, so, I mostly clear the snow on the sidewalks of the two neighboring houses. Last month, when it snowed, there was one morning when I couldn't clear the snow early. I went out a bit later to clear the snow, and to my surprise, the neighbors had already cleared the snow all the way to our sidewalk, and very neatly too. Perhaps, since I had cleared their snow a few times before, this time they did it for me. Honestly, I haven't met or had many conversations with the neighbors. However, even without conversations, I believe small actions convey a heart for one another. Simply clearing the snow in front of the house may be a small gesture, but it connected me with my neighbors and helped create a relationship where we can occasionally meet, smile, and inquire about each other's well-being. It gave me one more reason to love snow.

Relationships begin with such small acts of kindness. Offering a drink to the mail carrier or delivery person, exchanging greetings with people you meet while walking, approaching and welcoming those who visit the church, or initiating conversation and extending hospitality. These may seem trivial, but these small gestures bring smiles to each other's faces, opening doors between individuals, and fostering caring hearts towards one another. These small acts of kindness are more necessary in this day and age than ever before.

So, look around you. Who might need your acts of kindness? What small acts of kindness can you perform? May your acts of kindness create precious relationships within the grace of the Lord's love through your lives.

Community

The Community Yard Sale is set for April 27 from 7:00am-3:00pm. This event is rain or shine. Spaces are still available, and welcome to anyone. Each space is $5 and the money will be donated back to the church. If you need more information, please contact Karen Z at kiz4051@gmail.com. We hope to see you and a friend there!

United Methodist Men (UMM) will meet on Saturday April 20th for breakfast at 8:00 AM. We will continue our Story Teller Series at that time. After breakfast, those who wish to play miniature golf (at perhaps one of the best sites in the area) are welcome to join us at Adventure Golf, 9650 Sheridan Blvd., Westminster. We anticipate the cost to be between $8-10. We will work to obtain a group discount.

All men are welcome to join us for our UMM breakfast and miniature golf on Saturday April 20th starting at 8:00 AM. Please, mark your calendars now and sign up on the list posted on the UMM bulletin board in the church narthex. Thank you.
